Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

A tremendously interesting article by Charles A. Beard, distinguished American historian, appears in the current issue of Mercury. He gives an entirely new view of the part, the drifting and hazardous part, the United States is today playing in world affairs, through blunders in foreign policy. He not only points out the blunders but also shows why the blunders are being made. For instance we have a population of 7,700,000 German immigrants and second generation Germans, who have not yet been sufficiently assimilated to cut loose the ties that bind them to the "old country." We have a population of 4,500,000 Italians who have the same feeling for their former home land. These elements, clash not only with the general American view of foreign affairs, but also with other elements, English, Irish, Balkan, Scandinavian, which still feel bound to their native lands. All these foreign elements combined are sufficiently large and strong to deflect the course of our foreign policy, which Mr. Beard declares, in our national interest should be a strictly and defensively neutral one, as regards wars in Europe, Asia, or anywhere else except in the western hemisphere.

The author goes on to sum up the military strength of England and France, and declares that these two countries are actually thrice as strong in a military sense as is the Berlin-Rome Axis powers, and even with Japan thrown into the scale against them, are still far superior to the dictatorships. So far as the countries on the eastern borders of Germany are concerned, if they unite in common defense against German aggression they too can show superior forces. Why then, Mr. Beard asks, should the United States be concerned. Even though our sympathies are with the democracies, after all they are the ones who should defend themselves against attack. If they will unite, according to Mr. Beard. They are able to make an effective defense.

Our State Department, Mr. Beard declares, should refrain from any comment whatever on European affairs. Public passions should not be excited by belligerent condemnation of what other nations are doing. It is not our business to police a naughty world, especially when we have so much naughtiness at home which sorely needs correction. By condemnation and diatribe, by propaganda of various foreign interests within the United States, Mr. Beard declares, we are drifting into the next war, when our whole national interest, and the interest of world democracy, could be best served by strictly minding our own business.

Pro America has made a special study of relief legislation and offers the following comment on several phases of Dr. H. Dewey Anderson's program.

We note in the associated press dispatch of March 24 that Dr. Anderson will remove 24,000 cases from the relief rolls about April 1, if he does not get the $4,000,000 additional funds he has demanded from the legislature. This would probably not result in any unusual hardship as aseasonal decline in approximately that amount would not be at all unusual So if the good doctor will let the cases go that should go i. e. those who are offered jobs or who never were eligible to the program, the goal should be reached with no great difficulty.

It is interesting, however, that no mention is made of savings by cutting administrative costs, yet, if almost a fourth of the case load is dropped it would seem only proper that about one fourth of the employees should also be eliminated. These under a theory of job security dear to all true liberals, should of course be those most lately employed which would remove many of the really first class spenders and be a further means of saving money.

While having insufficient funds for relief, Dr. Anderson has admittedly added nearly one thousand new employees to his staff and in San Francisco has just moved from two rent free buildings into premises which will cost about $1000 per month.

All in all, if the legislators have the good sense not to give this relief administration any additional funds it looks as if it won't even need the $19,000,000 it has already received for the six months, January to July, 1939.

Clampers To Elect Grand Noble Officers Tomorrow Night

The robust members of E Clampus Vitus will sit down to dinner tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock in the banquet room of the National Hotel. The Grand Royal Musician, E. B. (Brownie) Dudley will summon the Clampcohorts in a mighty blast upon the ancient and majestic hewgag.

Following the refreshment and invigoration of the doughty trenchermen, the noble company will repair to the Hall of Comparative Ovations (Anmory Hall) where the Noble Grand Humbug, Fred Nobs, will declare the polls open for the election of officers. Prior to balloting all members will have been deprived of their side arms by the Damfool Door Keeper.

The following grand noble assortment of officers will be elected: Noble Grand Humbug, Clamps Petrix, Clamps Vitrix, Royal Platrix, Clamps Metrix, Grand Surgeon, Grand Farmer, Grand Royal Musician, Damfool Door Keeper, Noble Grand Chisler, Noble Grand Hangman, Noble Grand Treasurer and Grand Noble Recorder.

Plans will also be announced by Clamper Gwin for the "let-there-be-light" celebration at North San Juan, the date for which was tentatively set for the last Saturday night in April, but which may be postponed to early in May.

This is expected to be a noble outpouring of free and independent members of E Clampus Vitus from all of the thirteen chapters in the reorganized and purified ancient order in California. The old kerosene lamps will be piled upon a funeral pyre and on the word given by the grand noble humbug, the electric lights in this historic little town will suddenly flash out upon the amazed and beuddled landscape. There will follow rare speech making and high jinks fit for the Olympian dwellers. Then will come an initiation of poor blind brothers into the mysteries of E Clampus Vitus. The rejoicing community will then dance until the great hewgag greets the rosy fingered dawn of the new day in North San Juan.

MODERN LIGHTING IS ROTARY TOPIC

W. H. Meuron, P. G. & E. sales engineer of Auburn, was the guest speaker at the Nevada City Rotary club yesterday. With a minature store front and show windows he illustrated his lecture on how making lighting effects sell more goods.

He said the old fashioned store used to use its display windows as a kind of secondary warehousing accomodation. All kinds of goods were jumbled into the window and after dark, the show window was very dark indeed. Mr. Meuron then carried the show windows and store front through an evolutionary process in which lighting effects played a stellar role.

First the window was arranged artistically to show just one article or variety of articles of the same general character, such as trayeling bags. Then backgrounds were arranged to suit the display. Finally lights were rearranged to shine on the window display but not into the spectators eyes outside. At length the window passed into its present stage of development, in which it is regarded as a stage, and foot lights were added. Colored lights came next for intensifying the colors of the articles displayed. Finally the spot light was introduced to stress some especially beautiful arrangement or feature.

With the metamorphosis of the show window came the modernizing of the store front. Electric signs that can be seen for blocks in either direction take the place of the old flat day time sign board. Elegant little side windows are inserted, with a tiny display and beautiful lighting. Tile replaces the rusty brick of the store front, and finally an artist designs a great electric sign to cover the upper part of the store front, that gives the store a particular distinction in the eyes of all who pass.

The principle that governs show windows, Mr. Meuron stated, is to cause all passers-by "to stop, look and loosen." As a matter of fact in a well coordinated store, he said, the show windows are worth one third of rent paid on the entire store.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Egan and children returned to Nevada City last Sunday after a year's absence. They went to Arizona on a two weeks trip for the benefit of their sons health and were not able to return until this week. They expect to make this city their permanent home.

Dick Tuttle, son of Justice and Mrs. Raglan Tuttle, formerly a student in the Nevada City high school, has won a place in the cast of Shakespeare's "Love's Labor Lost", to be presented in May by the Sacramento Junior College. Young Tuttle will play the part of the king.

GOOD OLD DAYS ON FOREST RANGE ARE RECALLED

District Forest Ranger George E. King will officially hand over to his successor on April 1 old number 467, the pick up truck in which he has for the past several years bounced over the back roads of the Downieville district in the Tahoe national forest. King is retiring from the forest service on April 1 after 29 years service as a forest ranger, all of which was spent in the Downieville district and the principal part of it as district ranger in charge of the district. In observance of his coming retirement 86 present and former members of the Tahoe forest personnel gathered on the evening of March 24 at the Bret Harte Inn in Grass Valley and gave Mr. and Mrs. King a dinner party. Except for a proportionate admixture of fun-provoking gags, the theme of the evening was the recalling of the early days of the forest service when there was not the present network of roads, and what parts of the forest were accessible had to be reached with saddle and pack horses. Talks by some of the earlier day employees recalled the times when the ranger would be out for days on a fire and his wife at home securing and dispatching fire fighters and supplies and without the facilities which the present highly perfected fire organization of the forest service provides.

Among those who attended were Forest Supervisor Edward Smith now in charge of the El Dorado forest at Placerville who started as a guard on the Tahoe in 1908, John McIntosh former Tahoe district ranger, retired in 1935, Paul P. Pitchlyn, personnel manager for the California region of the forest service, Frank Haynie, who started as a clerk on the Tahoe about 1907, and is now supply officer for the entire forest service at Government Isand, and William Gracey from the forest service regional office in San Francisco, who was executive assistant on the Tahoe for a number of years under former Supervisor Richard L. P. Bigelow, who retired in 936 and who was also present to help pay honor to his former district ranger.

Prior to his entry into the forest service, King's life was spent principally in mining until in 1910 when, as he puts it, he got the notion that he would like to "fish and hunt at government expense." King stated that he soon found out that after discharging the duties of forest ranger he had very little time for fishing and hunting, but he had not been sorry for his choice and could look back on his 29 years' service with a lot of pleasure and satisfaction. Mr. and Mrs. King expect to make a sight-seeing trip for which they now have time, but expect to maintain their residence at Goodyears Bar.

King's place will be taken, according to forest supervisor DeWitt Nelson, by Frank B. Delaney, district ranger just transferred from the Mad river district on the Trinity national forest. Delaney will be moved into the newly developed Downieville ranger station. Previously the district was administered by King from the Serpentine Ranger Station at Goodyears Bar.

SPANISH MINE REPORTED TO BE IN BETTER ORE

Twenty key men have been retained at the Spanish mine to continue work. About the same number were laid off ten days ago. It is stated a strike of good ore was made recently. It was found in the old pit or first works of the old Bradley operations. For a time ore did not assay so well but with the new find the property will again speed up. The Spanish mine is north of Washington on Canyon Creek and has been in operation many years.

The mine has a most interesting history, in the late 80's, F. W. Bradley, just out of college was working at the property for a company that owned other mines up the Yuba river beyond Washington. The holdings of this company became involved in litigation which entailed a large indebtedness. F. W. Bradley offered to work out the indebtedness of the Spanish mine if, when the indebtedness was cleared the company would, deed the Spanish mine to him. The offer was accepted. Bradley published in the Nevada City papers a monthly report of the workings of the mine. These reports showed that low grade ore was being worked at a lower cost than gold had ever been worked before. These remarkable reports were copied in mining magazines and attracted the attention of engineers as a result of which he was engaged as an expert by the British Exploration Company. The Spanish mine has been worked by the Bradley interests ever since that time. Jack Bradley, youngest son of the late F. W. Bradley is at present at the mine, going there from San Francisco early this week.

BOOK OF POEMS OF A. MERRIAM CONNER, IS OUT

A book that many lovers of good poetry have been looking forward to with eagerness, is that of A. Merriam Conner, whose verse and prose has often appeared in the Nevada City Nugget, is just off the press. It was published by the Western Building Review publishers of Sacramento. Last year Mrs. Conner was elected the Poet Laureate of the lumber industry.

It is an attractive little volume of 75 pages filled with the charming poetry of Mrs. Conner. The cover and title are in the blue and gold colors of California. Its title is: "Old Trails and New." It contains over sixty poems, written with that rare understanding of men and their relation to other men, this world and the kingdom to come, which characterizes all of Mrs. Conners writing.

Ebaugh, Driven By Hunger, Surrenders Without Fighting

Hunger drove Bill Ebaugh, wanted on a charge of rape, out of hiding Wednesday night to beg food from neighbors in Willow Valley, and at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, following a tip sent the sheriff, Ronald Rraser, and Les Hubbard, two deputies of the posse of twelve combing Willow Valley, found Ebaugh unarmed in the old stamp mill that stands on his mining property.

When Ebaugh saw the two deputies he threw up his hands and shouted: "Don't shoot! Don't shoot! I haven't any gun."

After his surrender, he was found to be unarmed. He had no revolver in his possession, but the sheriff believes he had thrown it away. To a representative of the press he stated: "I was hungry and some friends fed me last night."

He declared he was innocent of the charge of attacking Mrs. Paul Meyers, wife of Murchie mine hoistman. He said the crime was committed by a big negro.

Until hunger drove him to appeal for food he had successfully evaded several posses organized by the sheriffs office. He is a noted woodman, powerfully built, weighing over 250 pounds, above six feet in height, and wears his hair long and uncombed, with a beard to match, a good six inches long.

Acting on the tip that Ebaugh had appeared the night before at the back door of a Willow Valley resident, Sheriff Tobiassen yesterday morning organized a posse consisting of a group of deputies as follows: Bill Woods, Carl Larsen, Leslie Hubbard, Ronald Fraser, Earl Hiscox, John Muscardini, Elisha Paull, Theodore Larsen, Jim Williams, Bill Harding, H. M. Leete of the Nevada City Nugget and Thos. Arden of the Sacramento Bee were unofficial members of the posse.

The posse arrived at the Will Davis property in Willow Valley and there spread out fan wise through the woods. Sheriff Tobiassen went directly to Ebaugh's house a half mile farther east. Others entered the creek ravine near which stands the old Hecker stamp mill where Egaugh was found. The men were armed with revolvers, sawed off shot guns, and tear gas guns. The only gun discharged was that of John Muscardini. It went off with the jolt of jumping down from the reservoir bank. Fortunately it was pointed to the ground and no one was hit.

Ebaugh was lodged in the county jail. He rode into town handcuffed alongside Ronald Fraser, who was driving.

The officers believe Ebaugh whose appearance and peculiar characteristics have established him as an eccentric to the surrounding countryside, will not surrender without a battle.

When the authorities entered Ebaugh's home Monday afternoon armed with the warrant they discovered he had fled. They said he had existed on practically nothing. The only food in the house was fifty pounds of onions and a few dried up vegetables.

Ebaugh is said by the officers to be a dead shot with a gun and is content to live by himself with little contact with civilization. Weighing in excess of 250 pounds and over six feet in height, the tales of Ebaugh's feath of sertngth are many.

He is known to have lifted back on its tracks an ore car filled with waste rock at his mine which adjoins his home in Willow Valley.

Once while traveling the Willow Valley road he noticed a heavy car stuck in the mud. The woman driver of the car reported he got from his machine and without a word lifted the rear wheels of the automobile to solid ground.

Neighbors say when Ebaugh cranks his automobile the front wheels leave the ground with each upward motion.

In June, 1937, Ebaugh was jailed after Mrs. Ray Dalmama, 35, charged she was kept a prisoner at his cabin for four months and was treated cruelly.

At the preliminary hearing on a charge of involuntary imprisonment, Justice of the Peace W. L. Mobley dismissed the accusation on a defense motion. District Attorney Vernon Stoll agreed to the dismissal after a preponderence of the testimony tended to disprove the woman's assertion Ebaugh purchased her for $20 from her husband.

Mrs. Dalama charged Ebaugh broke several of her ribs. This was due to the fact he "hugged her too tight" during his wooing.

He countered to her story with the statement she took ten $20 bills he had hidden in his home.

For many years Ebaugh has been in trouble with the authorities. Several years ago, they said, he pulled a gun on Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen and Undersheriff Woods when the two sought to question him about the killing of dogs in Willow Valley.

ENGINEER, HURT IN CAR CRASH, HOME FROM S. F.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crampton have returned from San Francisco where Mr. Crampton has been confined in the Stanford hospital for six weeks recovering from serious head and spine injuries received in an automobile accident. He will remain at his Nevada City residence until he has fully recovered.

The accident in which Mr. Crampton was injured occurred on February 6 and he was taken to the Stanford hospital immediately. The car which Mr. Crampton was driving was on a side street when an overloaded truck which had gotten out of control on a hill on the adjacent thoroughfare, turned into the side street and crashed broadside into Mr. Crampton's car. The Crampton car was struck broadside and the truck overturned. The driver of the truck was uninjured.

Fred Congdon, old time teamster and native of Timbucktoo, came up from Auburn Monday and visited friends. His father crossed the plains and his mother came via the Isthmus of Panama riding a mule across the isthmus. Congdon was 12 years old when Black Bart, notorious robber, twice robbed the stage between Wheatland and Smartville. At one time Black Bart stopped and visited with the 12 year old boy while he was hunting near Smartville.

CITY COUNCIL MEETS WITH ENGINEERS

Engineer Stewart Mitchell and Assistant District Engineer W. G. Tinney of the district 3 office, Division of Highways met with the city council at a special meeting held Wednesday afternoon. Improvement of the Gault bridge was discussed.

The proposed improvements contemplate widening the bridge to 13 feet. The present pedestrian walk will be removed and hung on brackets on the down stream side of the bridge. A concrete pavement will be laid on the deck of the bridge.

Members of the council will go to Sacramento Friday to interview W. P. A. authorities in regard to using WPA funds and employees for this work.

The council also held a hearing to establish the load limit on the Main street bridge. Due to the new construction work that has been done, the weight limit allowable over the bridge is 13 tons. Signs to this effect will be placed on both ends of the bridge.

Word was received in Nevada City Monday of the death of George Dillingham, brother in law of LaMar Fleming, in the Philippine Islands. "-After The Horse Is Stolen"

There isn't much comfort to be found for the tavpayer in the official Washington announcement that no increase in the national debt limit will be sought at this session of Congress.

As Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau so well put it —it is just about as comforting as a padlock on the stable door after the horse is stolen.

The national debt is now at the $40,000,000,000 level. The present legal limit to which it can grow is $45,000,000,000. Current budget estimates will carry the debt to within an eyelash of the $45 billion figure by next year.

Even if a new limit is not sought at the next session of Congress there is not much to cheer about in the present situation. The debt has to be paid, and it can be paid only through taxation.

But there is no assurance that a higher debt limit will not be asked for next year. In fact, all indications point toward a bigger debt. This indication comes from the apparent Washington policy of "let's spend and spend and spend some more".

It is about time for economy to be made a word of actuality and action instead of just a seven-letter word that sounds good in conversation. It is past time for a recognition of the fact that you can't spend a country out of debt and depression.

And it is about time for the taxpayer-worker to start figuring out how he is going to make his earnings meet living expenses and government expenses at the same time.—Contributed.

Totalitarian "Efficiency" Just A Dream

(From "Labor")

Many claims are heard nowadays that dictator countries are performing miracles of industrial production, while democracies lag behind.

Those assertions can seldom be tested by figures, but a "yardstick" for one of them was provided this week by a Department of Commerce report.

It says that automobile production in Germany "increased slightly" from 267,000 cars in 1937 to 278,000 in 1938 and truck production rose even less, from 60.000 to 61,000.

In 1938 the United States produced 2,000,985 cars and 488,650 trucks. To equal that record in proportion to its population, Germany would have had to produce at least 1,000,000 cars and 250,000 trucks. Actually, it produced about one-fourth that many.

This is a fair test of dictatorship "efficiency," because Hitler started out several years ago, with a blare of publicity, to make a cheap "people's car" which would put millions of Germans on wheels.

Yet Germany's automobile production made almost no gain last year, and is not even in sight of the annual production figures of democratic Uncle Sam.—Contributed.

The Fruits Of Promised Reward

Daily life in America has become a series of contacts with the words "patent" and "patent pending." They mark the way of millions of Americans as they turn on a light, shave, drive to work, telephone, write a letter, listen to the radio, occasionally fly about the country, and see motion pictures.

These common but seldom noticed words relate to some part, if at all, of most appliances and gadgets that make possible the modern way of life. They are silent police that warn of the right of the originator to prevent exploitation by others.

Invention is a field of pioneering that remains as a frontier now that our geographical frontiers are extinct. The individual leads on this frontier as on those of old, for more ideas still come from the garrets and workshops of individuals than from the industrial laboratories either large or small. And who of us can say what new and unthought of inventions are coming in the future to bring us more and better living, making new industries and new jobs?—Contributed.

FORMING GOOD HABITS

We often hear mothers saying—"My child has a habit of doing things this way or that way. Habits are learned such as learning to dress yourself, or feeding yourself. The first time you do something new it is hard, each time it is easier and easier to do, soon you do it without thinking about it. This we call a habit.

Your child is learning everything that way. He forms habits. He can learn a good way to do things as well as a bad way. He learns the way you teach him.

Begin when he is born.

Feed him at the same hour each day. Let him sleep after every feeding. Don't feed him just because he cries. Let him wait until the right time. If you do this his stomach will learn to wait and he will learn that he can not get things by crying. This is teaching his body and mind good habits.

When he cries do not pick him up. See that no pins are hurting him; that he is warm and dry, change his position and leave him alone. In this way you will teach him not to fuss and cry. If you pick him up when he cries he will learn to cry for things. The time to pick him up is when he is awake and not crying. Play and talk to him quietly for a little while. Do this at the same hours every day. This will teach him that he will get attention if he does not cry. This will save time and it is good for the baby.

Dont let other people pick him up or talk to him too much. A little baby should be quiet most of the time.

All babies are not alike. Your own doctor or well baby clinic will give you a plan for your baby. What hours your baby should be fed and when he should sleep, how much food to give him and when to change the plan as your boby grows older. Start your baby with good habits and the baw ones will not form so easily.

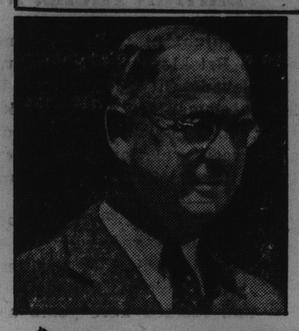
Former Stagecoach Operator Compares Travel



W. E. Travis (inset), Pacific Greyhound president, once operated horse-drawn stages in the West. He compares present-day Greyhound service, its very low fares, luxurious Super-Coaches and many schedules every day, with the 50c-a-mile fare and twice-weekly schedules in the old days.

Commenting on the new low Greyhound bus fares, which go into effect April 1, W. E. Travis, president of Pacific Grehound Bus Lines, said he cannot help comparing present-day Greyhound service with the stage coach service he operated in several western states around the turn of the century.

"We gave 'em a hard, rough and costly ride in our horse-drawn stages," said Mr. Travis. "Passengers had little or no protection from the weather, and a twice-weekly schedule was considered excellent service."

"Today," Travis continued, "the new Greyhound fares are the lowest in history, and transportation is provided in the most modern of buses—the Greyhound Super Coach. Furthermore, today instead of leaving only once or twice a week, the freqency of service is unequaled as Greyhound furnishes more service to more places than any other transportation system."

After the automobile had made horse-drawn stages obsolete, Mr. Travis converted early motor cars into stages and later operated the first bus company in America to provide transcontinental service.

"Pacific Greyhound alone," Mr. Travis stated, "operates more than 35 million miles yearly in the west, using over seven million gallons of gasoline and paying $255,000 (1938) in gasoline taxes."

N. C. H. S. GRADUATE OF CLASS 1884 SUCCUMBS

Funeral services were held in Sacramento this morning for the late Mrs. Eliza Sims Boyd and the body brought to Nevada City for interment in the family plot in Pine Grove cemetery.

Deceased was graduated from the Nevada City high school in 1884 and subsequently taught school in Grass Valley. She is survived by one son William W. Boyd of Oakland and a daughter Mrs. Brian Krough of Nevada City. The late Mrs. W. W. Waggoner of Nevada City was a sister, Miss Dorothy Waggoner being a niece.

CCC ENROLLEES DROP OUT

Grass Valley CCC camps will lose approximately thirty enrollees and Bradley Camp, near Forest Hill, approximately fifty, according to Tahoe forest officials. A portion of these are voluntary resignations, according to forest supervisor DeWitt Nelson, largely in his opinion for accepting private employment, but part are necessarily separated on account of the present law governing the Civilian Conservation Corps in fixing maximum terms of service and afe limits.

Mrs. Ellen Walmsley and daughter, Miss Elinore Walmsley, were Sacramento business visitors yesterday.

LAKE VERA CAMPS PREPARING FOR SUMMER

Workmen are cleaning up, making repairs and doing some building at Camp Celio, Camp Fire Girls lodge on Lake Vera in preparation for the group of girls that come up from the bay district each vacation.

A caretaker and wife reside at Camp Augusta which is also being made ready for the summer vacations of Camp Fire Girls. Parties have been held there throughout the winter season by Camp Fire Girls.

The Girl Reserves, who have been leasing Gold Hollow for about three years, will not visit the camp this year. The grop are building a lodge in Mendocino county. Gold Hollow is owned by Mills College.

REDWOOD TREES GROW IN NEVADA COUNTY

In 1912 the forest service planted 3000 seedlings of the real Sequoia Gigantea, known as Giant California redwood on Rock Creek Canyon below Lake Vera. There is now a grove of 90 trees there ranging from 50 to 60 feet in height and each about two feet in diameter. This shows a very rapid growth. The trees are not native to this altitude.

COUNTY TO GET $5,876 SHARE IN LIQUOR FEES

SACRAMENTO, March 30.—Cities and unincorporated areas in Nevada County will receive a total of $5,876 as their share of fees derived from liquor licenses issued during the last half of 1938, it was announced here today by R. E. Collins, chairman of the State Board of Equalization.

From the standpoint of the state as a whole, the allocation will amount to $1,222,192.86. This represents 50 per cent of the total fees earned during the last six-month period of 1938. The state's share of this income, after administration costs are deducted, goes into the general fund.

On the basis of actual licenses issued, the unincorporated area of Nevada County will receive a total of $2,530 and Nevada City will receive $1,430.

The allocations and distribution of these funds are made twice a year it was explained by board members. Ordinarily the first half total is considerably larger than that of the last half inasmuch as a majority of the liquor licenses are renewable during the initial six month period of each year.

The current allocation is substantially higher than that of the same period of the previous year, the amount which the cities and counties will receive totaling more than $230,000 over their receipts for the last half of 1937.

In making the announcement, the board members again pointed out that this money is collected entirely by the state and represents income derived exclusively from alcoholic beverage license fees.

STUDENTS VISIT GRAND CANYON BOULDER DAM

L. M. GIANNINI ADMITTED TO U. S. COURT PRACTICE

L. M. Giannini, president of Bank of America, has been admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court, according to advices received from Washington, D. C.

Giannini, son of A. P. Giannini, founder of Bank of America, received his legal training at University of California's Hastings College of Law, from which he has an LLB degree. He is a member of the California bar, where he was admitted to Supreme Court of California and Federal Courts practice in 1920.

He started with Bank of America as a clearing clerk, worked his way up through many different departments, and became president of the institution, now fourth largest in the nation, in 1936.

UNION ALLEY SIDEWALKS

WPA workmen tore out the sidewalk along the park side of Union Alley yesterday and made forms for laying cement on about a three foot sidewalk. This will make the street wider. The removal of old poplar stumps last week added much to the convenience of the traveling public.

RICH ORE AT ARCTIC MINE

Good news comes from the Arctic mine, northeast of Washington, with the report that ore assaying in the neighborhood of $100 per ton had been struck. Mine officials are much pleased with the new discovery. There is a 50 ton daily capacity mill at the mine. L. F. Utter, superintendent and principal owner, is at the property.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder what will happen next—
A mountain, so they're telling me,
Slipped from its leash near Gilroy town
And tottered off toward the sea.
It must have been a startling sight,
That lawless hunk of ambling loam;
I hope the hill on which I live
Will never, never leave its home.

I wonder why I worried so much about the perambulating hill which made news a week or so ago; quite foolishly I imagined all sorts of upleasant things and asked many silly questions; were the state divisionists at work? Was a dangerous precedent being set—one which other knolls and escarpments might imitate? Could we ever again trust our mountains and repose confidence in their stability? Was this movement of hilly earth a publicity stunt staged by enthusiastic California boosters in order to distract attention from New York's little festival and focusing it upon California's great world's fair on Treasure Island?

A few days passed and then the turmoil which it had created, the terrifying hill lost momentum, leveled off and came to a stop—its short reign of terror ended, its time if disintegration about to begin.

Of course the moving blurb of clay marked a trail of ruin through the land; the earth was deeply scarred, trees uprooted, beauty ravaged and laid waste; but the living spirit of nature, will attend to all that; the good earth will be restored, vegetation will again cover the denuded areas, and within a few years, the lawless hill will be recalled by scientists and laymen alike, as an ugly blot upon the geological history of a great state. For that is the way of the world, you know.

I wonder if it is to be two great dictators against the world; that reminds me of the twelfth juror, who explained the jury's failure to agree, in this manner: "Of course I held out, you see. I knew I was right; but those other eleven jurors wouldn't come around to my way of thinking. They are the stubbornest men I ever met in my life!"

I wonder if we are carrying the so-called forty-niner motive a bit too far; the whiskerino touch for instance, seems to be growing somewhat shop-worn. Why can't the virile thirty-niners adopt some new form of facial adornment which would set them apart and insure them a distinctive representation in the parades of all future generations? How would curly sideburns do, waxed chin whiskers, bristling goatees, or just anything with a modicum of originality.

Uncle Silas says: "They tell me that the outlaw mountain down Gilroy way plowed a bull under. Now I do hope it wasn't Ferdinand. —A. MERRIAM CONNER.

BOTANISTS SAIL TO ROBINSON CRUSOE ISLAND

BERKELEY, March 30.—The particular Juan Fernandez island which lies closest to the Chilean coast, the Mas-a-Tierra of Robinson Crusoe's adventures, is at present the scene of a side exploration by the University of California's botanical expedition to the Andes to obtain a particular species of tobacco plant known to that island alone. Samples of the plant will be sent to the botanical gardens here.

The expedition to the romantic isle is led by James L. Morrison of Oakland, one of the chief collectors of the main expedition. Morrison was commissioned for this job after having experienced some stirring adventures in the Chilean earthquake, in the aftermath of which he conducted a boatload of 600 refugees from Concepcion one of, the quake stricken cities, to Valpariso.

Upon his return to Valpariso, it was necessary for Morrison to join a Chilean lobster fleet, which was going to the Juan Fernandez islands for a catch. It will be necessary for Morrison and his party to remain on the islands until the fleet returns to its base, a period which may take several weeks. In the meantime he will traverse the strands and the inner island fastnesses of the Mas-a-Tierra, home of the Alexander Selkirk for 20 years and ancient hideout of Dampier the pirate, and many other old time privateeers.

Strawberry plants from the Mas-a-Tierra are growing in the University's botanical gardens, having been obtained in a visit to the island by members of the University's first Andean botanical expedition two years ago.

The cast has not yet been chosen, but there are about 25 students trying for parts. It will be announced on Friday. Mr. Burke is advisor for the senior farce.

The boys at the high school have been practicing track and field sports preparatory to a meet in Gridley, April 15. Among those competing are Tobiassen, senior and Max Ruth and McCarthy, juniors in the shot put; Tobiassen and Lotz seniors and Russell sophomores in the hurdles and sprints; Gregory, freshman, Spracklin, sophomore and Doolittle, senior in the broad jump; Marinkovich, freshman and Floyd Ruth, sophomore in the high jump and Max Ruth junior in the pole vault.

"The Bank of America has made no departure from its determination to keep inviolate the confidential relations between the bank and its clients or its opt-repeated policy of cooperation with the commission to ascertain the truth. Under the procedure, the Bank of America is removed from the controversy pending the decision of the court.

"We are now returning to California to carry on with our regular business."

SUIT DISMISSED

CAMPTONVILLE, March 28.—The damage suit demanding $286 resulting from an automobile accident near here several months ago, was dismissed in the local justice court Friday by Judge A. M. FANTASTIC YARNS ABOUT ANIMALS PROVED UNTRUE

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—Liars Club trophies might well be awarded to the inventors of many fantastic yarns about animal life which have come to enjoy popular belief, according to Dr. Raymond B. Cowles, assistant professor of biology on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California.

Dr. Cowles, who spent his early life in Africa and who has devoted much time in recent years to exploring the deserts and mountains of California, has evidence to show that:

Ostriches do not bury their heads in the ground. If they wish to hide, they lie down and stretch their necks out on the ground, with their eyes wide open.

Bats are not attracted to the hair. As this creature feeds on insects, it has no interest in the modern hygenic coiffure.

Snakes have no power of hypnotism. Some birds and animals "freeze" when danger is near, but they do so to hide and avoid attention. A bird fluttering on the ground in front of a snake is trying to lure it from the nest containing eggs or young birds.

Salmanders cannot live in extreme heat, much less fire. They can survive air temperatures somewhat over 70 degrees, but their surroundings must be moist, as they cannot stand dry heat.

There is no such thing as a "glass snake", the parts of which are supposed to have the power to break up and reunite. There are, however, certain species of legless lizards which have the power to drop off their tails in emergencies. Reunion is impossible.

There is nothing peculiar about the digestive tract of the Gila Monster. Its poisonous bite is not due to accumulated bacteria in the creature's body, but to actual venom.

The porcupine cannot "throw" his quills. He does raise them when angry, just as a dog raises the hair on the back of his neck.

Toads cannot possibly give anyone warts. Toads do have a poison secreted by the skin which causes discomfort to humans if it touches a mucous membrane, such as that of the eye or mouth.

Roadrunners do not imprison rattlesnakes with a fence of cactus. A rattlesnake would have no trouble escaping through such a barrier.

The hoop snake, which supposedly rolls down hill by grasping its tail in its mouth, is a purely inventive creature; and there is no record of the whip snake living up to its reputation for lashing a victim with its tail.
